ADAPTABLE SOLUTIONS FOR LEARNING WITHOUT BOUNDARIES

The Hub of the School

Supporting the community's unique needs, what once was a library is now a center of activity. These flexible spaces need to accommodate technology, house research and reading materials, and stimulate creativity with STEM and STEAM areas, quiet areas for independent reflection, and social areas for small and large group learning activities.

The Center of School Life

A blended space allows for teaching and learning zones. Use standing and seated height tables and adaptable seating to set up quiet reading spaces, café areas for comfortable collaboration, media stations for online activities, as well as traditional instruction zones.
